

Gary Catalano Named Principal of Don Bosco Technical Institute

It gives me great pleasure to announce the appointment of Gary Catalano as principal of Don Bosco Technical Institute, effective July 14, 2008. Mr. Catalano, who currently is serving as State Superintendent of Catholic Schools in the diocese of Cheyenne, Wyoming, was selected following a nationwide search.

Mr. Catalano brings to Bosco Tech a wealth of administrative experience. Prior to this appointment as Superintendent, Mr. Catalano was Assistant Superintendent/President of the Diocese of La Cross, Wisconsin. He has served as principal of two Catholic high schools in the state of Indiana, and as an assistant principal prior to these appointments. He has taught secondary science/reading in the Cincinnati public schools and also was an adjunct faculty member for math/physics in Cincinnati Technical College.

Currently a doctoral candidate in educational leadership, Mr. Catalano holds master's degrees in special education, geology/physics and education/reading/special education. Throughout his administrative career, Mr. Catalano has developed several programs to enhance student learning and augment and strengthen the educational curriculums of studies.

In the words of Mr. Catalano, "Today's students, which are tomorrow's leaders, unlike students of a generation ago, will most likely face more than five career changes in their lifetimes. It is important that if these students are to succeed, that they develop a thirst for knowledge, a tolerance for change and a self accountability for learning as it is a continuous and on-going process that will continue throughout their lives."

Mr. Catalano's background prepares him well for the many challenges awaiting him at Bosco Tech. His qualifications are extensive, but over and above these traits, he is a consummate professional, who will continue to bring vision and direction to our school community. His love of education will undoubtedly be evidenced in all the undertakings of his administration. All of us at Bosco Tech warmly welcome Gary Catalano to our Salesian family, and look forward to the many contributions he will make as principal to the continued growth and development of Don Bosco Technical Institute.

Sincerely,
